BEFORE ANYTHING ELSE

The Honest Truth About Healing.

This is not a quick fix. It is not a detox, a cleanse, or a 10-day reset. What you are choosing is something more difficult and more rewarding than any of those things — you are choosing to learn your own body.

WHAT WARREN BELIEVES

"The people I've seen transform their health — genuinely, lastingly — all share one thing in common. Not a particular diet. Not a specific supplement. Attention. They learned to pay attention to what their body was telling them, before symptoms became crises. The portal is a tool for developing that attention. The rest is yours to bring."

— Warren Hennon, NTP · Divergent Nutritional Therapy

Action, dedication, and discipline are not motivational words. They are the precise mechanisms by which bodies heal. Action — logging your check-in even when you don't feel like it. Dedication — reading about your digestion on a Tuesday afternoon when Netflix is easier. Discipline — taking your supplements at breakfast every day, not most days.

These three things, applied consistently over 30 days, produce changes that no supplement can produce on its own. The portal exists to support that consistency. But the consistency is yours to choose, every single day.

TRUTH 01

Your symptoms are not random.

Every symptom your body produces is communication. Bloating, fatigue, brain fog, poor sleep, afternoon energy crashes, skin problems — these are not inconveniences or signs that your body is failing you. They are your body speaking in the only language it has. Learning to translate that language is the entire point of this program.

TRUTH 02

The habits you have are not accidents.

You eat the way you eat because of decades of conditioning, stress patterns, cultural influences, and biochemical cravings driven by imbalances you may not even know you have. Recognizing an unhealthy habit is not a character judgment — it is a clinical observation. The portal helps you see the patterns. What you do with them is up to you.

TRUTH 03

Consistency beats perfection every time.

WHAT $27 PER MONTH GIVES YOU

A Complete Wellness Intelligence System.

Every feature below is designed to help you understand your body better — without requiring a session, a prescription, or a perfect day.

✦ Your Personal Health Assessment

A 10-domain questionnaire that maps your body's burden across digestion, blood sugar, stress, hormones, immunity, and more. This is not a symptom checker — it is a clinical-grade nutritional assessment that produces a wellness score and a personalized learning path. Warren built this from his 1,226-hour NTA training. It tells you more about your foundational health than most routine blood panels.

✦ Daily Check-In — 15 Seconds

One emoji. Tap how you feel. That's it. After 7 days of consistent logging, patterns begin to emerge. After 30 days, you will see connections between your food, your sleep, your stress, and your daily experience that you never noticed before — because you were never paying attention this consistently before.

✦ Food + Mood Journal with Symptom Tracking

Log what you eat, when you eat it, and how you feel before and after. After 3 days of entries, the portal's AI begins generating personalized insights — connecting the foods you're eating to the symptoms you're experiencing, based on your specific assessment results. This is where awareness becomes actionable.

✦ Weekly AI Wellness Insight

Every week the portal analyzes your check-ins, your food journal, and your assessment data and generates a personal observation — written specifically about your patterns, not generic wellness advice. It will name what it sees. It will tell you what it means. It will give you one focus for the coming week. This is nutritional intelligence working for you while you sleep.

✦ The Foundation Library — 11 Articles + 11 Books

Complete educational articles on all 10 nutritional foundations — digestion, blood sugar, essential fats, minerals, vitamins, protein, immunity, adrenal health, liver function, and hormones — plus a special article on the mind as the foundation beneath all foundations. Each article explains how the system works, how it gets disrupted, what the symptoms mean, and what nourishes it back to balance. Paired with Warren's curated book recommendations for each foundation.

✦ Personalized Learning Path

Based on your assessment results, the Library automatically surfaces the most relevant articles and books for your specific burden pattern. If your digestion scored highest, your reading path starts there. Your education is organized around your biology, not a generic curriculum.

✦ AI Meal Plans — NAQ-Calibrated

40+ curated recipes with food photography, seasonal filters, dietary filters, and sensitivity warnings based on your assessment. The platform flags recipes that may challenge your highest-burden systems. You don't need to know which foods to avoid — the portal tells you, based on your data.

Your Body Has Been Talking. Here's How to Hear It.

Your body does not break down silently. It communicates constantly — through energy levels, digestion, mood, skin, sleep, and cravings. Most people have learned to suppress, ignore, or medicate these signals rather than translate them.

The portal teaches you a different relationship with your symptoms. Not fear — curiosity. Not suppression — translation. Here are the signals most people are missing and what they actually mean:

SIGNAL

You're exhausted despite sleeping 8 hours.

This is rarely a sleep problem. It is more often a mineral problem (magnesium, iron), a blood sugar problem (cortisol disrupting sleep architecture), a thyroid problem, or an adrenal problem. The portal's assessment maps exactly which systems are burdened — so you know where to look instead of just managing the fatigue.

SIGNAL

You crash in the afternoon, every day.

Your body just told you something specific: your blood sugar regulation is struggling. The afternoon crash is not a caffeine deficiency — it is a blood sugar crash, driven by what you ate for lunch (or didn't eat for breakfast). Log your meals for 7 days and this pattern will become visible in your food journal.

SIGNAL

You bloat after almost every meal.

Your digestive system is telling you it is overwhelmed. This could be low stomach acid, enzyme insufficiency, gut dysbiosis, food sensitivities, or stress (your body cannot digest food and run from a threat at the same time). The food journal will help identify which foods correlate with the most symptoms — this is your body pointing directly at the problem.

SIGNAL

You crave sugar constantly — especially after meals.

This is not a willpower problem. Post-meal sugar cravings are almost always blood sugar dysregulation — your body is craving a quick energy source because it cannot efficiently access the energy from the meal you just ate. This is fixable. But first you have to recognize it as a signal, not a character flaw.

SIGNAL

What's Working Against You — and What Replaces It.

Most unhealthy habits are not failures of willpower. They are responses to biochemical signals your body is generating because something is out of balance. Recognizing the habit is step one. Understanding why your body created it is step two. Addressing the underlying imbalance is step three.

HABITS THAT HOLD YOU BACK

- × Eating breakfast late or not at all
- × Coffee before food — every morning
- × Eating quickly, standing up, or stressed
- × Snacking constantly without real meals
- × Screens during meals
- × Late-night eating after 8pm
- × Suppressing symptoms with caffeine
- × Rewarding stress with sugar
- × Sleeping less than 7 hours routinely
- × Ignoring thirst until extreme

WHAT REPLACES THEM

- ✦ Protein within 60 min of waking
- ✦ Water or lemon water before coffee
- ✦ Sitting, breathing, eating slowly
- ✦ Three structured meals daily
- ✦ Phone down, food up — 20 minutes
- ✦ Kitchen closed after dinner
- ✦ Investigating the symptom instead
- ✦ A 10-min walk after difficult moments
- ✦ A consistent sleep window — same time daily
- ✦ Half your body weight in ounces of water

ON DISCIPLINE

"Discipline is not punishment. It is the practice of choosing what you actually want over what your nervous system is demanding right now. Your nervous system wants sugar, caffeine, and stimulation because it is trying to compensate for an underlying imbalance. The discipline is addressing the imbalance — not overriding the craving with willpower indefinitely. The portal helps you find the imbalance. Discipline gets you there."

The journal is the most important tool for identifying which habits are holding you back. When you log what you eat and how you feel before and after, patterns appear within days. The portal's AI will name them. Your job is to be honest — log the coffee, the late dinner, the afternoon candy bar. The data only helps you if it's real.

Your Path. Day by Day.

D1

Complete your Health Assessment

10 minutes. 10 domains. Your wellness score is generated. Your personalized learning path is built. Your library is curated around your specific burden pattern. This is the foundation everything else builds on.

D2

Log your first daily check-in

One emoji. Every day from here. This is not optional — it is the data that makes the weekly insight possible. It takes 15 seconds. Do it when you make your morning coffee.

D3

Log your first food journal entry

What you ate, when you ate it, how you felt before and after. Don't make it perfect — make it honest. After 3 days of entries the AI begins generating personalized insights from your data.

D7

First milestone — one week of data

Your portal celebrates your first week. Your first weekly AI insight arrives in your inbox — naming a specific pattern in your data and giving you one focus for the coming week. This is where it starts to feel personal.

D10

Read your first foundation article

Start with the article most relevant to your highest-burden domain. The library surfaces it for you. Read it once, slowly. Highlight the parts that feel true about your experience. This is how awareness becomes knowledge.

D14

Activate your self-guided protocol

Choose a foundational protocol from the library. The platform guides you week by week — what to focus on, what supplements to consider, what to notice. Your protocol becomes your daily anchor.

D30

Your 30-day picture

30 days of check-ins. Multiple journal entries. AI insights generated weekly. Foundation articles read. A wellness score that reflects real data. You now know more about your body than you did 30 days ago. That knowledge is yours permanently.

READY WHEN YOU ARE

"The self-guided path is for people who are ready to take responsibility for their own health — not people who have all the answers, but people who are willing to start paying attention. If that's you, the portal is ready. Your body has been waiting longer."
